A CRUSH AT THEIR EXCELLENCE'S FIRST STATE BALL.

Belleville, Tuesday, March 5, 1890.

What a magnificent evening! The ball at the residence of the Hon. Mr. Justice, which was given for the benefit of the Belleville Hospital, was a most successful one. The room was filled with guests, and the music was excellent. The dancing was very lively, and the evening was passed in the most enjoyable manner. The Hon. Mr. Justice was present, and gave a most interesting address. The ball was a great success, and the proceeds will be used for the benefit of the hospital.

Notes from the Gallery.

FEBRUARY 28, 1890.

The interest created yesterday made me take another look into the House, and I happened to be present at the session. It was a very interesting one, and I saw many things that I had not seen before. The House was crowded with people, and the atmosphere was very lively. The Hon. Mr. Justice was present, and gave a most interesting address. The ball was a great success, and the proceeds will be used for the benefit of the hospital.

The Hawk, Cutting Winds.

Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of air is a great relief to many people. The Hawk, Cutting Winds, is a most effective remedy for all kinds of rheumatism and other ailments. It is made from the finest herbs, and is guaranteed to give relief in a short time. Try it today, and you will see the difference.

BECAUSE IT LOVES IT.

New the ministerial press inform their readers that the Government are not at all opposed to unrestricted reciprocity. They are, and always have been, in favor of reciprocity in natural products. The Herald expects to gain by so gross a falsehood, and who it expects to gain by so gross a falsehood, and who it expects to gain by so gross a falsehood.

EDITORIAL BRIEFINGS.

The Toronto Herald has the following pithy remarks concerning the right about-face executed recently by the Globe on the Jesuit bill and the fisheries question: "In the old days when the Globe was a power in the land as great as or greater than the Toronto, it was often wrong—but it was always honest."

"Now it seems justifiably of the Fisheries and Safety of the Jesuits."

The Grit party are at long length concerned concerning the Jesuit Bill. On Friday last they considered the bill, and on Saturday they considered the bill. A STORY OF NEW ENGLAND LIFE.

A child of our generation. By E. J. Felt.

One evening, when Edward E. Felt, a young man of twenty, was sitting at his desk, he was looking over a letter from his mother, who was in the land of the living.

"I am so glad to hear from you," she wrote. "I am so glad to hear from you."

"I am so glad to hear from you," she wrote. "I am so glad to hear from you."

"I am so glad to hear from you," she wrote. "I am so glad to hear from you."

DEAR SIRS.—After having played on the Piano of Messrs. Bell & Co., of Guelph, Ont., it is impossible not to bear testimony to the qualities which have acquired for them the good reputation which they already enjoy. The Pianos of their manufacture are exceedingly remarkable their qualities of tone. The bass is powerful without harshness, and the upper notes sweet, clear and mellow. The Bell Pianos are unquestionably the best made in Canada, and I set upon my principle and give you to-day an order to furnish one for my own use. Canada is the concentrated spot having produced the Bell Piano.

Respectfully, Yours,

BEHAVIOUR, MONDAY, MAR. 11

AN ILLUSION DISPELLED.

One of the inducements held out by the advocates of free trade with the United States for the support of their project was that American manufacturers would be able to sell their goods in Canada and that a large number of American capitalists would flow, in a glorious and all-enriching tide, to the assistance of the Dominion. We have, however, during the long discussion of the subject in these columns, to point out that the immigration of Americans to Canada, and the consequent increase in the production of the country, is a very different matter from the immigration of American capitalists to the Dominion. The latter is a very different matter from the former, and it is a very different matter from the former.

We further quoted from the speeches of Messrs. Wainwright and Butterworth before the House of Commons, that the immigration of Americans to Canada would be a very different matter from the immigration of American capitalists to the Dominion. The latter is a very different matter from the former, and it is a very different matter from the former.

Finally, we have the American Export and Trading Company of New York, presenting to the Senate of the United States, through Senator Brainerd, a petition which states that the immigration of Americans to Canada would be a very different matter from the immigration of American capitalists to the Dominion. The latter is a very different matter from the former, and it is a very different matter from the former.

A NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY.

The death of Capt. John Emerson, of the Great Swedish-American inventor, at New York on the 7th inst., recalls the fact that, twenty-seven years ago, the iron-clad "Monitor" of his invention saved the United States from a great disaster—perhaps from total defeat—in the battle of Hampton Roads. It attacked and sunk the iron-clad "Merrimack," which had been converted at Norfolk into a steam-driven iron-clad. It attacked and sunk the iron-clad "Cumberland" and "Congress." On the next day the "Monitor" entered the harbor. This was the first of the turret-ships, its flat deck being nearly flush with the water, and its guns mounted on a revolving turret. There followed the first battle on record between two iron-clad vessels. The fight lasted for several hours, when the "Merrimack" withdrew for repairs, being seriously damaged.

Previous to this France had her iron-clad, "Le Gloire," and England her iron-clad, "Warrior," but the combat now resulted in a revolutionized naval warfare.

ENGLISH IN THE SCHOOLS.

The Minister of Education, has, in some of the schools in the province the French language and in other schools the German language, is taught, to the exclusion of English, except as a foreign tongue. Mr. Meredith voiced the sentiment of a large number of the people in the province when he said, in a speech at Ottawa, that the French language should be taught in all schools in the province. He pointed out, that the State of Ohio, which has a large French population, permits German to be taught in the public schools as a subject of education, but the State of Ohio allows the English language to be taught in all schools in the province. He pointed out, that the State of Ohio allows the English language to be taught in all schools in the province.

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING.

The first meeting of the Board of Trade and the committee of the City Council, in reference to the proposed industrial boom, will be held in the City Hall tonight. There will be a large attendance at the meeting, and it is expected that some important decisions will be reached. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock, and will be presided over by the Mayor.

Children Cry for Fitch's Catarrh.

THROW IT ON A GREAT THING FOR BOAC.

COMMERCIAL UNION OR UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY IS JUST WHAT THE BRITISH TRADER WANTS.

Says the Boston Herald: There is hardly an industry carried on in this city that would not feel the stimulus of a different and increased demand if the trade barriers which separate us from the Dominion were removed. The British trader and the Canadian manufacturer are both in a position to benefit from a free trade with the Dominion. The British trader would be able to sell his goods in Canada, and the Canadian manufacturer would be able to sell his goods in the Dominion. This would be a great benefit to both countries, and it is a great benefit to the Dominion.

THE RETURN TO THE BOSTON MARKET.

Now would this demand upon us for goods be the only or the most advantageous result which would follow a union between the Dominion and the United States? The answer is, no. There would be a number of other advantages which would follow a union between the Dominion and the United States. The Dominion would be able to sell its goods in the United States, and the United States would be able to sell its goods in the Dominion. This would be a great benefit to both countries, and it is a great benefit to the Dominion.

CASTING PLATE GLASS.

The casting table, the most important piece of apparatus in a glass works, is 10 feet long, 14 feet wide, and seven inches thick. It is provided with a heavy iron roller on each side, and is used for casting plate glass. The glass is poured on the table, and is then rolled out by the rollers. The glass is then cut into sheets, and is then annealed in a lehr. The lehr is a long, narrow, brick building, in which the glass is allowed to cool slowly. This is done to prevent the glass from cracking.

CORN SOWING.

A process conducted by the agency of light bulbs all the year around. Corn raising is best conducted through the agency of Putnam's Patent Corn Extractor, the only safe and sure way of growing corn. Putnam's Extractor is now widely imitated. Beware of all poisonous and poor producing substitutes.

NAUTICAL PATENTS.

Anchors were invented by the Tuscan. The first anchor, or fluke, was added by Captain 1822 D. The anchor was introduced into the navy about 1822. It was made by the inventor, and was used by the navy. It was a great improvement on the old anchor, and it was a great benefit to the navy.

COPPER SHEATHING WAS FIRST APPLIED TO THE NAVAL VESSEL ALBION WAS SO SHEATHED BY THE ENGLISH.

The ship Albion, a British naval vessel, was the first ship to be sheathed in copper. This was done to protect the ship from the attacks of the shipworm, a small insect which eats the wood of the ship. The shipworm is a great enemy of the ship, and it is a great benefit to the ship to be sheathed in copper. The ship Albion was sheathed in copper in 1822, and it was a great success.

FACTS ABOUT FROCKS OF INTEREST

The Easter gown is of secondary importance as compared with the Easter hat or bonnet, but it comes in for its due share of consideration at the moment. In the sketch below are three typical dresses, prepared for Easter and the passing season. The first is a simple, yet effective. It can be utilized as a costume for a party. Made up in black Henrietta cloth or cashmere or Indolite black silk, it may do duty as a costume for a party. When applied to this use, however, a larger and more severely simple black bonnet should be worn with it and over the face should be drawn a Hading or an Empire veil.

religious reader, that anything that looks studied or affected in the dress of a lady no really wishes to observe the most solemn of all the fasts of the church is beneath the dignity and gracious character of the Christian lady.

The illustration shows three women standing side-by-side, dressed in formal Victorian attire. The woman on the left wears a dark dress with a light-colored sash and a high collar. The woman in the center wears a dark dress with a light-colored sash and a high collar. The woman on the right wears a dark dress with a light-colored sash and a high collar. They are all looking towards the viewer.

The central figure represents the dress which the best dressmakers call a Josephine or Empire gown. It is of black velvet, with trimmings of black lace, and is worn with cut steel and jet, or diamond, or Rhine stone ornaments. It is a gown that may be worn at a dinner party, a dancing tea or reception or a ball. Strictly speaking it is not a ball gown. That is represented in the gown on the left, and this is also called a Josephine or an Empire gown. These dresses are really pretty and good, but they were, for they are a vast improvement on the gowns worn by the two Empresses of Napoleon I. The only ridiculous thing about gowns. The one on the left is a veritable dancing gown. It is made of that gauziest dimension of all woven stuff, mousseline de soie broche, of a Rose du Barry tint, draped over satin of the same color. The pulchre bertha, the short sleeves, and belt are the only reminders of the period of the first French Empire. The skirt, the ribbon sash and shoulder knots, and the pink feather fan belong to our own decade.

1787.

Some of the styles of the reign of Louis XVI. were exceedingly beautiful. The costumes made by the unfortunate King of France, his subjects were not greater than those made by his Queen and the noble women of her court and kingdom in the style of their dress. The hoes, powdered and painted faces, the towers of hair, and the black patches on the faces of the beauties and belles of the reign of Louis XV. had disappeared long before the Reign of Louis began to flourish. Front-sticks of imagination easily conceive that the beautiful and ill-fated Princess Lamballe looked not unlike the skirts of the young girl seated at the table. Doubtless these garments are a young lady's first forays into the world of fashion; but, gowns, hats, and collars in just such a modified style; for the above sketch represents the fashions of the days of Maria Antoniette. It is the graceful, picturesque rendering given to it by a woman of imagination, taste, sentiment, and artistic feeling. This sketch is from a portfolio collection of old Parisian sketches during the period of time between 1787 and 1792.

Fashion Notes.

All violet is the flower of Lent.
All cloth costumes are profusely braided.
Red cloth gowns are much worn in London.
Shades in all the shades is again in fashion.

Ribbon embroideries appear on some of the richest spring evening gown.

Crape cloth, not crapes, is the preferred mourning dress fabric of English women.

Yokes will again be in vogue for summer frocks of muslin, percale, minkosol, and satin.

Perfectly plain, flat, undraped skirts, gauged on to the belt or bodice, are immensely fashionable.

Royal and de la hay boudie come among the other shades of this color in fashionable fabrics and millinery.

All fashionable skirts, whether short or demit-train, fall as flat as possible at the bottom, as in the case of the skirt shown.

Easy-fitting jackets with waistautes are the preferred style for the summer gowns of women with full figures.

Steel embroidery of a very fine artistic and delicate tinted cloth gowns.

Long lace circle cloaks, decorated with a hood or yoke of black moire and dots of black moire ribbons, are seen among importations of the highest novelties.

Mathematically and financially it costs more in money to be an average sinner than it does to be an average Christian.—J. C. Oakley.

BELLEVIEW, THURSDAY MAR. 21

MRS. FRANK LESLIE.

Perhaps no woman of the present day has fought against greater financial odds than Mrs. Frank Leslie. She has not only overcome them, but has proved, as well, that women can occupy successfully the position of great business leaders. Mrs. Leslie, the founder of the celebrated weekly, did, in fact, in comparison with her husband, and in his hands he has enjoyed his beautiful wife to take his place in the office and work out the problem of the business from the chaos which he had left. She has fulfilled the trust that she received from her husband, and has made a fortune of $400,000, leaving to herself a few million dollars more. She has also made a fortune of $400,000, leaving to herself a few million dollars more. She has also made a fortune of $400,000, leaving to herself a few million dollars more.

A WISE CONCLUSION.

Years ago we decided that we would handle only such goods as we could recommend to our customers as good value for the money. The result is we have established a reputation for selling the best wearing Boots and Shoes in the locality, and our trade has increased while others have decreased. Our new Spring Stock has again been selected with the same care.

tenberg and Fraul. Loisinger have created as much excitement in Austria and Germany as the more startling Egypt incident in England. There seems to be no longer any doubt that the earthshaker of Bulgaria has in reality united himself in the bond of marriage with the young sultan. The marriage has been admitted by a semi-official organ in Darmstadt; and it is further stated that a divorce suit has not been commenced against a son of the Emperor William.

Count Hartenau's name which he is apparently to adopt hereinafter. Franklin Jones, another man who is alleged to be Count Hartenau's, has, we imagine, stripped any prima donna that ever lived as regards the social position attained by her. Judging from the accounts given of her antecedents, her climb has been from the lowest rung of the ladder. Her father was a maid or flunkey of some sort. Her first husband was a poor fellow who died in birth, according to the opinion that prevail in society, Frawley Lotzinger seems, however, to have had both beauty and talent to recommend her as a singer stand-out. She was the reigning toast of Darmstadt opera-goers, and was regarded as a most prominent figure in the town. As a fortune to marriage sense—on the part of an opera singer or actress is no longer a matter that provokes astonishment. Her speciality is the comédie in the Comédie. When a prima donna of celebrity does so, marry a manager or a tenor who has played Elvino to her Amina, as she has, or a baritone who has sung to Prince, a Duke, or nobleman of some kind. Madame Patti, before she married Sigor Nicolini, was the Marquise de Cour-moulin. Madame Christa Nilsson is the Count Casa-Miranda, a Spanish grandee.

The opera singer Leopoldine Hofmann is the spouse of the Archduke Henry of Austrian. Prince Burghard von Bismarck wife Marie Louise a circus-rider; the reigning Duke George II. of Saxe-Meiningen is the husband of the actress Helene Drans, and Prince Adalbert of Prussia wedded Therese Elzler—sister of Fanny, the famous dancer. This Therese was also on the stage, and was nicknamed "The Magistrate" on account of her commanding stature and prodigious strength.

may be called matrimonial elevation and a good deal might be written about handsome male operatic singers and actors who have found favor with titled ladies. The record before and after the notorious Scipio belongs, however, rather to the chronicle scandaleuse than to legitimate history. There, nevertheless, are instances of a young English tenor, still alive, said to be married privately to an English duchess.—N. Y. Times.

Navigation has been opened at the west end of Lake Erie.

A number of additional Provincial University examiners were appointed last night.

The Franchise Bill is expected to come up in the House at Ottawa to-day.

A. THREE CONCLUSIONS

A WISE CONCLUSION.

Years ago we decided that we would handle only such goods as we could recommend to our customers as good value for the money. The result is we have established a reputation for selling the best wearing Boots and Shoes in the locality, and our trade has increased while others have decreased. Our new Spring Stock has again been selected with the same care.
